The Writer's Loft: Panel Discussion

Saturday, March 27

“Making Money Making Fiction”

Writing fiction is a labor of love. It takes long, lonely hours of hard work to create a poem, story, or novel. It can take years to get published. And yet people continue to write—and people continue to overcome the odds and get their work in print. If you are one of those people dedicated to the craft of writing—and desirous of being read—then you will enjoy The Writer's Loft panel discussion on “Making Money Making Fiction.”

Panelists

Etta Wilson, March Media

Joe DeGross, The Ensign Literary Review

River Jordan, author of The Gin Girl
